Richmond, VA – March 12, 2013. New Horizon Security Services, Inc., a family-owned and operated professional security services firm, has renewed two contracts in its Education Division; one with Danville Community College and the other with the Department of Correction Academy for Staff Development.

“We are thrilled to be continuing our relationship with Danville Community College and the Department of Corrections Academy for Staff Development,” New Horizon Security President John “J.J.” Frazer said. “Renewing these contract shows how our commitment to security for educational facilities is a cut above the rest.”

Under the agreements, New Horizon Security will continue to provide unarmed security services for the educational institutions. New Horizon Security officers provide 24 hour coverage on both campuses; securing buildings, patrolling the grounds, and acting as deterrents to potential disruptive or criminal behavior.

In the last year, New Horizon Security officers have not only offered substantial proactive incident reduction, quick responses to incidents, and incomparable value to its clients; they have learned how to do it better.

“We embrace our educational clients’ sense of learning and experimentation in order to find new ways to better serve our clients,” Frazer said. “For example, this year we studied how to perform patrols more efficiently with electric bikes on Danville Community College’s campus. When we incorporate our ideas with the campus’ needs -- everyone wins.”
